Being completed this summer at the Columbia Falls Anaconda plant is a $1.1 million addition to house the personnel department, a portion of purchasing, medical services, employees training and the safety department.

The women's change house was completed last May, while the change house itself was enlarged by another 6,000 square feet doubling the previous available space.

The employee relations department is in new offices, and with completion of the new addition, the main gate is being moved 75 yards north to the end of the new building. Main road into the plant now runs past the new addition and between the enlarged change house and the laboratory.

The parking lot is being expanded by 400 spaces each with headbolt heater outlet.

Stewart and Janes Construction, Kalispell, is general contractor.
